

HRAA Counselor-in-Training Application Summer 2011

As part of Kids R Cool 4 Conservation, HRAA accepts volunteers aged 14-18 as Counselors-in-Training. Students build on their interests in the environment through recreation, science and wildlife biology. CiT is a volunteer position. HRAA offers students to achieve meaningful experience in a working environment developing skills in recreation, childcare, natural sciences and overall work ethic. Applications to this program will also introduce youth to the job application process. At a later date students will be able to use their time at HRAA toward their resumes. These are voluntary positions to build youth toward their future careers.

CiTs are engaged as assistants to full-time staff as responsible supervisors to young children engaged in kayaking, swimming, science and biology, and "Games with Aims". These are positions requiring the student's commitment and responsibility. The safety of camp participants and all related staff is our primary objective.
